Public information session - Donington-on-Bain 18 July 2018

The organisations that work together to regulate the onshore oil and gas industry are hosting a public drop-in event at Donington-on-Bain Village Hall on the 18 July 2018.

The purpose of the session is to give local residents the chance to find out about the different agencies' roles and to ask questions or discuss any concerns they have about onshore oil and gas regulation.

Everyone is welcome to attend at any time between 1-8pm.

Regulating the industry
As regulators and agencies involved in assessing the impacts of the oil and gas industry our role is to ensure that any exploration and development is done in a way that protects people and the environment.

This session will be a great opportunity for us to meet with local people, explain our respective roles before the Biscathorpe site is developed.

The Oil & Gas Authority issues licences for onshore gas exploration and regulate seismic activity.

The local planning authority, in this case, Lincolnshire County Council, is responsible for land use planning decisions and minerals planning approval.

The Environment Agency is the principal environmental regulator in England. It is our role to make sure that companies run their sites while protecting the environment and public health.

The Health and Safety Executive is responsible for regulating safety on the drilling site, including well integrity.

Public Health England is responsible for reviewing the possible effects of site activities on public health.

Staff from the Environment Agency, Lincolnshire County Council, Health and Safety Executive, Oil and Gas Authority and Public Health England will be attending this session.
